Gender Equality Policy, YPM

Gender equality is a basic human right for all people. Access to resources, opportunities and decision-making shall be equal for all, regardless of gender. YPM promotes gender equality as a basic human right and strives to ensure that gender equality is integral to all aspects of YPM's work and to all programs that the organization supports. YPM works with its partners to secure gender equality in all aspects of the partner organization's work. Gender equality is a requirement in all activities and all projects supported by YPM. To ensure equality in contexts, structures or activities where it does not already exist, positive discrimination of women and concrete measures to ensure women's participation may be necessary.

Recruitment

YPM strives for a gender balance in its staff team, in its Board and when recruiting exchange participants. YPM will track and report annually on gender balance in staffing and governance structures and implement specific strategies to balance male/female representation. In few areas in Tanzania women are over-represented in staff positions in the development sector, but in most places it is not the case and this is also true in YPM. Therefore intentional recruitment for women to apply should be encouraged in all new positions that are advertised.

Approaches

The empowerment of girls and women is crucial in working for gender equality. YPM has a dual approach to the empowerment of girls and women:

- engaging with policy makers, both nationally and internationally, to advocate for the empowerment of women and girls, for fairer policies that abolish discriminatory practices and that promote gender equality, and for laws to protect and promote the rights of women and girls.
- Working with partners in projects that empower girls and women. This can take many forms, for example providing education for girls, engaging young women in training that equips them to participate in decision making processes, economic empowerment through savings and investment groups, advocacy for policies that end discrimination and much more.

YPM also promotes the active engagement of boys and men as allies in promoting gender equality. The YMCA's Transformative Masculinity approach is applied where possible. YPM collaborates with different development partners in local councils, Tanzania, Norway and other partners from abroad to promote effective, creative and impactful ways to promote gender equality.

Public Profile

YPM ensures that all public representation of the organization reflects its commitment to the empowerment of women. This relates to what is shared in the media / social media – both content, visual images and whose voice is portrayed, as well as to physical representation at external meetings. It is important that the voice of girls and women is heard in the public domain and at all levels of decision making. YPM has specific policies against sexual harassment and unwanted sexual attention.

Reporting

YPM reports on gender equality results in all its reports to funders and evaluates these results in order to incorporate learning into the organization.

Policy review

This policy will be reviewed when necessary.
